

ALTERNATIVE SOURCES OF FUNDING

This collection of grant and fellowship opportunities is organized according to selection criteria. Categories include opportunities focused on particular countries or regions, general funding for undergraduate and graduate students, funding for individuals working in human rights fields, journalists, organizations, professional development funding, and funding for women. Many of these opportunities require strong English skills.

These opportunities generally require applicants to submit a body of work and curriculum vitae. They all have application materials available online, with hyperlinks at the end of each opportunity's description. Please contact the organizations directly with any questions. The IIE Scholar Rescue Fund cannot provide any more information regarding these opportunities than what is already listed. Good luck!
